

NOUS SOMMES TOUS PARIS

Oh those poor poor people. Oh my beautiful Paris. Of course it's in the name of religion and religion is sacred.

As I have said, with reference to the fuckfaces declaring parts of East London a 'No Gay' zone, guys who want trouble should get trouble, but it should be high-grade amusing trouble, such as marked amplification of Mick performing Sympathy for the Devil and a few love-ins would be good too. Inappropriate in current circumstances? Adaptable. If I were to hold a rock concert in Paris now I think I should set up some kind of contingency plan, remote back-up such that in the event of disturbance 'All You Need Is Love', which of course begins with a few bars of the Marseillaise, fills the air.

I have said, Christ what have I said, a thousand times, I have said I believe in the free movement of peoples. It is not entailed thereby that the free world adopt the values of those who have chosen to live in it. It is not entailed thereby that anyone has to pay the faintest attention to the ravings of rabid animals, take seriously the ravings of rabid animals. That the free world will stay the free world should have been made clear at the border. If you don't like it, you can put up with it, or you can go somewhere else. Shrug. It's a free country.

Instead priests and politicians fell over themselves to make rabid animals feel welcome, let them take root, sickos who cannot tolerate the reality of thousands of different ideas in the world, billions of separate independent people who have views of their own, and castigate the rest of us for being mostly normal, made clear again and again the West would capitulate, all freedom, all democracy, all civilization would cede to their filth

Made a piece of dirty disgusting vermin called Sacranie a knight of the realm.

Friday's horror lies at the door of of the perps of course, but the leaders of the West who fell over themselves to destroy freedom, who created corrupt and evil laws to criminalize reason, intellect, learning, independence of mind, who insisted evil is good until I may suspect even creatures as obscene and corrupt as they can't quite manage it any more, they too are guilty.

The Pope stressed again that "the way of violence and hatred does not resolve the problems of humanity", adding that whoever uses God's name to justify that path is guilty of blasphemy."

Not entirely how they reacted over Rushdie. Who knows, they may be learning: evil is evil, whatever it calls itself.

It's not as though the script wasn't blindingly obvious, the agenda of the worthless vermin not entirely clear. Ignorance is not to be countered by knowledge, irrationality is not to be countered by reason, bestiality is not to be countered by love.

Jesus said he'd raise people up. Jesus told people to love one another. Jesus told people stories to engage their minds. Jesus never forced himself on anyone. Right from the arrival of the Muslim brute beast, the Muslim sick animal whose answer to everything is violence we have had so-called Christian clergy falling over themselves to return us to the Middle Ages.

Having worked out they have more in common with Islam than with the free world. Some people seem to be surprised a rock concert was targeted, regard it as the most innocent of pastimes. Ratzinger of course informed us of the satanic nature of rock and roll. As I have said, Mick Jagger performing Sympathy for the Devil would be an excellent litmus paper test as to whether a prospective immigrant was going to feel at home here.

Thus no resounding upholding of the free world has come from Canterbury or Rome, no telling Muslims which end is up, no educating them in the history of the free world, no telling them they are in the post-Enlightenment, post-Marx, post-Sixties C21st free world, only a constant evil whine about the sanctity of religion, how religion is necessarily good, even when it is evidently filth and sickness and evil, how religious people are superior to nonbelievers, even when they are evidently the vilest and sickest of subhumans, no telling filthy monkeys like Sacranie if they don't like it they can fuck off, and so these brutes of priests have the final responsibility for yesterday's atrocities in Paris, the traitor filth who have shat on freedom and insisted fascism, psychosis, bestiality be protected and upheld and called good that those who shit on language and reason and love are welcome in the free world, who have enabled the vermin to take root when they should have been shown the door.. Filth of priests have seen nothing wrong with men who hate and despise and abuse and murder women and gays, rolled out the red carpet for them, as did and do vermin like Corbyn.

Citons Mme Luxemburg

“Freedom only for the supporters of the government, only for the members of one party – however numerous they may be – is no freedom at all. Freedom is always and exclusively freedom for the one who thinks differently. Not because of any fanatical concept of ‘justice’ but because all that is instructive, wholesome and purifying in political freedom depends on this essential characteristic, and its effectiveness vanishes when ‘freedom’ becomes a special privilege.”

The Russian Revolution

I suppose she was a Tory too. We the Left are not all scum, just at the moment most of us. The wolfworm was always there of course, is implicit in Marxism as a doctrine of enforced change, as it is Islam, see below, et seq, et fucking seq, but that doesn't mean all Marxists go along with all of it, any more than all Catholics or all Muslims, or all anythings necessarily go along with everything. Part of the trick of course, the filth imposed on the free world, is to pretend that only the vilest, dimmest, most literal and ignorant and vicious anythings are truly representative of the anything.

Citons Voltaire

[30] I saw a man of gentle, simple countenance, who seemed to me to be about thirty-five years old. From afar he cast compassionate glances on these piles of whitened bones, across which I had had to pass to reach the sages' abode. I was astonished to find his feet swollen and bleeding, his hands likewise, his side pierced, and his ribs flayed with whip cuts. " Good Heavens! " I said to him, " is it possible for a just man, a sage, to be in this state? I have just seen one who was treated in a very hateful way, but there is no comparison between his torture and yours. Wicked priests and wicked judges poisoned him; is it by priests and judges that you have been so cruelly assassinated? "

[31] He answered with much courtesy--"Yes."

[32] "And who were these monsters? "

[33] "They were hypocrites."

[34] "Ah! that says everything; I understand by this single word that they must have condemned you to death. Had you then proved to them, as Socrates did, that the Moon was not a goddess, and that Mercury was not a god? "

[35] "No, these planets were not in question. My compatriots did not know at all what a planet is; they were all arrogant ignoramuses. Their superstitions were quite different from those of the Greeks."

[36] "You wanted to teach them a new religion, then? "

[37] "Not at all; I said to them simply--' Love God with all your heart and your fellow-creature as yourself, for that is man's whole duty.' Judge if this precept is not as old as the universe; judge if I brought them a new religion. I did not stop telling them that I had come not to destroy the law but to fulfill it; I had observed all their rites; circumcised as they all were, baptized as were the most zealous among them, like them I paid the Corban; I observed the Passover as they did, eating standing up a lamb cooked with lettuces. I and my friends went to pray in the temple; my friends even frequented this temple after my death; in a word, I fulfilled all their laws without a single exception."

[38] "What! these wretches could not even reproach you with serving from their laws? "

[39] "No, without a doubt."

[40] "Why then did they put you in the condition in which I now see you? "

[41] "What do you expect me to say! they were very arrogant and selfish. They saw that I knew them; they knew that I was making the citizens acquainted with them; they were the stronger; they took away my life: and people like them will always do as much, if they can, to whoever does them too much justice." . . .

[42] " You therefore contributed in no way by your speeches, badly reported, badly interpreted, to these frightful piles of bones which I saw on my road in coming to consult you? "

[43] "It is with horror only that I have seen those who have made themselves guilty of these murders."

[44] " And these monuments of power and wealth, of pride and avarice, these treasures, these ornaments, these signs of grandeur, which I have seen piled up on the road while I was seeking wisdom, do they come from you? "

[45] "That is impossible; I and my people lived in poverty and meanness: my grandeur was in virtue only."

[46] I was about to beg him to be so good as to tell me just who he was. My guide warned me to do nothing of the sort. He told me that I was not made to understand these sublime mysteries. Only did I conjure him to tell me in what true religion consisted. [47] "Have I not already told you? Love God and your fellow-creature as yourself."

[48] " What! if one loves God, one can eat meat on Friday? "

[49] "I always ate what was given me; for I was too poor to give anyone food."

[50] " In loving God, in being just, should one not be rather cautious not to confide all the adventures of one's life to an unknown man?"

[51] "That was always my practice."

[52] " Can I not, by doing good, dispense with making a pilgrimage to St. James of Compostella? "

[53] "I have never been in that country."

[54] " Is it necessary for me to imprison myself in a retreat with fools? "

[55] "As for me, I always made little journeys from town to town."

[56] " Is it necessary for me to take sides either for the Greek Church or the Latin? "

[57] "When I was in the world I never made any difference between the Jew and the Samaritan."

[58] "Well, if that is so, I take you for my only master." Then he made me a sign with his head which filled me with consolation. The vision disappeared, and a clear conscience stayed with me.

That is what the West thinks of as a holy man, as do not a few Buddhists, Hindus, Sikhs, Muslims, Taoists, Nothing in particulars.

Actually it's more ironic than that, it's what the non/un/unaligned and not particularly-religious West thinks of as a holy man. The 'good Christians' seem to have more of a problem with him.

All throughout the endless ages/All your Buddhas, Christs and sages/Said you lost points by spilling blood/A killer dude was just a dud/Who didn't understand manhood. To state a fact, ask what it might imply - shut up, you fool, you want to die?

They never did like my verses. The guy Mohammed was a general, killed people.

/

Bon, pour nous, de vrais marxistes, c'est la guerre. L'Internationale sera le genre humain, et les femmes, les gays*, et les juifs, et bien sur les musulmans libres qui s'en fichent du fascisme.

*The Website of someone who looks as if he would know tells me 'gay' is an international term. A classical education taught me many things but not the state of the art C21st French for gay, so I'll stick with gay.

We need of course a First Amendment and we need it now. We need to be able to tell freakoids that however much they 'will not tolerate' insult to their disgusting death-cult, no-one gives a fuck. They revolt us. Gee, guys, just learn to live with it. We need to tell them that freedom is not negotiable instead of what we have been telling them for the past 20 years, that they only have to squeak and large proportions of the political and clerical classes will fall on their faces and hand over the liberties of the free world.

Non, c'est pa ça

'Born, born, born on the 4th July....' Née le quatorze juillet All the same, all together now: 'God bless America..' Yes, I thought that would turn your stomachs.

Allons, enfants de la patrie, le jour de gloire est arrivé. Clearly not. Contre nous de la tyrannie l'étendard sanglant est levé. Say that again. C'est nous qu'on ose rendre à l'antique esclavage. Said it again slightly differently.

Va te faire foutre. And again slightly differently.

Though a propos of the date, substantial numbers of my family are US citizens and indeed my half-brother Nigel was a professor.. Not to mention Cousin Rodney having been Professor of Mediaeval Social History at Birmingham.

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Confrontation_analysis

You just won't foist it on me, dumbfuck deadheads, that consultants and professors are a higher order of humanity. In the case of my family, they're my order of humanity: educated people. In the case of medicine they're a fucking joke.

Le Parti Communiste Francais had an interesting war. Geared up to fight fascism by Spain, already international by virtue of communist refugees, the Nazi-Soviet Pact devastated it but after the fall of France it still managed L'appel du 10 juillet 1940, which in the terms of today's fascist fake Left is flagrantly 'nationalist' -

Vive la France libre - and indeed Frenchmen never shall be slaves (Jamais un grand peuple comme le nôtre ne sera un peuple d'esclaves).

Bar the goo about Vladdy the Impaler (Vive l'Union Soviétique de Lénine et Staline, espoir des travailleurs du Monde). It's largely the kind of thing I or any other member of the Free English Left might say. Leave in the bit about plutocrats? Depends whom they're funding. You fight fire with fire not a leaky bucket. And so some quit the Parti, though not necessarily to do anything

Les communistes qui quittent le Parti pour cause de désaccord avec le pacte sont nombreux. La crise est très profonde et jouera un rôle considérable dans les crises ultérieures. Plus du tiers des députés communistes se désolidarisent du pacte germano-soviétique et quittent, au moins provisoirement, le parti. Vingt-deux des soixante-quatorze parlementaires communistes quittent le parti et le groupe communiste à l'Assemblée nationale pour créer un nouveau groupe parlementaire : l' Union populaire française.

After the collapse of the Pact, certainly, communists were a significant element in the French Resistance. The military strength of the communists was still relatively feeble at the end of 1941, but the rapid growth of the Francs-Tireurs et Partisans (FTP), a radical armed movement, ensured that French communists regained their reputation as an effective anti-fascist force. The FTP was open to non-communists, but it operated under communist control with its members predominantly engaged in acts of sabotage and guerrilla warfare. By 1944, the FTP had an estimated strength of 100,000 men. Towards the end of the occupation, the PCF had reached the height of its influence, controlling large areas of France through the Résistance units under its command

Certainly the Free French under de Gaulle were heroic but don't let anyone tell you that's the whole story. Some people on the Left have balls, not to mention have fought for the freedom of their country

<http://www.dillsplace.com/exo-eso-balance-balrogs-et-le-parti-communiste-francais-1939-1945.html>

There, wasn't that interesting. Am I not a freaking mine of information? You don't read French? Tards, you don't read English Communists make no mechanical division between legality and illegality under the conditions of bourgeois rule. They are not opposites, but different moments in the development of the class struggle. Democratic rights under capitalism are not granted by the generosity of the ruling class. Nor are they inherent in the system. They have been won by struggle in the face of fierce opposition by generation after generation of working people. Draft Programme of the CPGB

Oh how many of their silly laws have I broken, laws made by traitors for slaves.

And so we have a new Nazi-Soviet Pact and those who would have been at home in the Waffen SS raise the red flag. What my grandparents would have wanted me to do? No, it's what my grand-parents would have assumed I'd do.

<http://www.dillsplace.com/exo-eso-balance-balrogs-et-le-parti-communiste-francais-1939-1945.html>

It would of course be rather good if M. Hollande quoted L'Appel, it would so wonderfully remove the wind from the sails of the Islamofascist fake 'Left'.

I have said:

FREDDIE AND PETER

Now there's a pair of immigrant success stories. Freddie was born in Zanzibar and Peter in Jamaica. Did you know that? I thought I knew it and checked. You didn't know it because you don't even know which planet you're on. Freddie was born Farookh Bulsara. Peter, so far as I know, was born Peter Straker.

Hip cool C21st England welcomes anyone who wants to live in a free country in the modern world.

As to the rest

ComSymp, SovSymp, there were members of my family who would not have fared well under McCarthy, but this is England. When I hurl the word 'traitor' around with apparent wild abandon, it should be seen in the context of total acceptance of an Englishman's right to gush over a hostile foreign power.

To not like someone's point of view is distinct from demanding he or she be silenced and only your point of view be heard. To campaign against views one believes erroneous or pernicious is distinct from demanding they be forbidden. One accepts the right of others to hold their own views and seeks to instruct them in the error of their ways. The other doesn't. Without liberty, no-one would be permitted either to practise a religion other than that of the Church of England or to have no religion. Muslims need freedom of conscience to be upheld. They do not gain fans by seeking to deny it to others.⁴

To seek to change the foundation of society from one where everyone has a right to his or her own views and so you have a right to your minority view to one where only you have a right to your views would not seem very bright for there may surely be an awkward hiatus when those in power under the original system may shrug and say OK, you don't think anyone else has a right to his or her views so why should you have that right, and pull the rug out from under you.

Some Islamists think to impose the new order by force. The Party I am sure would have loved to have a revolution but you do need at least five people for that.

Like classical Marxism, Islamism entails a change to the foundation of society. Both of course point enthusiastically at what everyone else calls a shit-hole and demands that here be more like that. If you are taking your cue from Saudi, Iran or Pakistan, it is no different to taking your cue from the Kremlin. The fog of garbage concerning the supposedly sacred nature of faith conceals this simple fact. Hey man, it's cool. No-one has to take any notice of people taking their cues from hostile foreign powers. The problem comes from insistence that we do.

Pause to imagine some 30s Party member lecturing the British government of the day on Marxophobia. Well, you know, I am a devout Marxist-Leninist and surely there can be no right to abuse the sincere beliefs of millions of people. Marxists consider Comrade Lenin a towering figure, a giant among men leading the proletariat from darkness into light.

The rhetoric is appropriately similar: we want real democracy not sad corrupt old bourgeois democracy. We want proper Islamic human rights not sad corrupt old Western human rights.

There are minor comments to be made, such as that in a world with vastly diminished communications, early generations of British Sovsymps had no great grasp of 'there' but Shariasymp are clear what 'there' is like. Whether either really wanted or want to surrender what they have here is moot.

Do you have a problem with inviting those who thought things were vastly better ordered in the Soviet Union to fuck off and live there? I don't, or only a personal one: chunks of my family might have been born in the USSR and family get-togethers would have been a bit difficult.

To suggest people fuck off is distinct from insisting they fuck off and deporting them. Really, it would have been frightfully unBritish to deport Uncle Richard or Cousin Rodney. You didn't get hanged/sent down for 30 years/deported to Mother Russia for being an open SovSymp but for being paid by the KGB to pretend you weren't.

The element of concealment is I think critical. If demanding the overthrow of the State were the key issue, 95% of 60s students now fully paid-up members of the human race would have gone down (the other 5%, hmm). I think the exact criterion would be working towards the overthrow of the State and its replacement with a system of government with different foundations and pretending you want something compatible with the existing order.

<http://www.dillsplace.com/comsymp-shariasymp-plus-ca-change.html>

Indeed there are many similarities. Here are some more.

My father was 11 in 1917, old enough to remember that they really believed (no, don't laugh at the simple faith of ordinary people, know you not the simple faith of total loons is to be revered) the revolution would spread to cover the earth. Marx said. Well, at least he said stuff about determinism and the progression of society, the inevitability of the collapse of capitalism and so on. Since he died in 1883, he naturally couldn't have said anything of the kind.

Ah, 'Londonistan'. Marx wrote Das Kapital in London, where he remained until the end of his life, not in Paris, Berlin, Frankfurt or Bruges. The reason for this is that he had been kicked out of France, Belgium and Germany. If your society is freer than other people's, every dissident and every loon ends up there.

In 1989 a British author of Russian ancestry published a novel perceived as being 'disrespectful' of Stalin (I understand there was also a charge of revisionism) and a decree went out from the Kremlin that it was incumbent upon every true Marxist to kill said capitalist scum and many marches and demonstrations were organized demanding his death. Naturally the leaders of the British Left ever-vigilant for an opportunity to destroy liberty were vocal in their support. Arthur Scargill, prominent member of the Stalin Society, worked ceaselessly to have the man at the very least prosecuted though he thought death only perhaps too good for him, in consequence of which the Labour Party had him knighted. I'm sure you remember all this well.

'Opium of the people' it works on two levels, does it not. One is turning the mind of the True Believer into stewed ape-shit, and this is so whether the faith is religious or atheist. The other is what the word 'religion' does to politicians who clearly have minds of stewed ape-shit to start with, being convinced in the face of the evidence provided by 3000 years of so of human history that religion is necessarily good and further convinced that a bunch of capering junkies rendered through their dope apparently incapable of grasping the existence of large numbers of persons who do not share their addiction represent a valuable contribution to society to be supported and upheld.

Sigh. I can't quite imagine my dear old aunts, were they still alive, attending the AGM of the Stalin Society but I do know that they were hooked to the ends of their lives. They belonged to one of those ghastly Anglo-Soviet friendship societies and regularly visited the l'espoir des travailleurs du monde, of which, as late as when I returned half-starved from Moscow in the 80s, they would hear no evil.

<http://www.dillsplace.com/comsymp-shariasymp-fit-the-second.html>

Not of course that I know a thing about a bunch of fucktards raving about One Book which they claim contains all reality I think it's the Dutch who show prospective immigrants film of gay guys kissing. If you don't like it, you won't like it: probably a good idea not to come. Mick strutting his stuff too would seem adequate litmus paper

Precisely who are (oh yes, I think plural) locked up inside their opium-dens surrounded by some Chinamen will eventually have to become clear, not to mention banks on every finger, a finger in every country and all the countries ruled by them.

Oh, are they men of wealth and taste? Well, that's that then, innit.

The religious peasant, savage, animal, devoid of any intellectual and moral education, incontinent, impotent, incapable of either self control, containing what it thinks and feels or self command, changing what it thinks and feels, bred to be helpless by the filth of priests, rabbis and mullahs, to be incapable of dealing with itself and so to assault the external cause of its woes, a rent-a-mob assiduously cultivated by the vermin of religious in their assault on freedom and democracy, such that we are all supposed to say how terrible is this freedom which must assuredly be destroyed for it distresses the devout, or in other words sick vicious animals who come from intellectual and moral if not physical slums in tandem with the filth of actual slums equally assiduously taught by their Trot teachers that the filth in their heads, their delusions of their own importance and perfection is sacred, that all civilized rational moral life must be subordinate to them, intellect, learning, intelligence, rationality, may be butchered because they 'offend' or else prosecuted, must they not, Mrs Blair, as the universities must be destroyed and made training schools for mad vile animals who hate intellect, learning, intelligence rationality, morality, intellectually worthless garbage who probably believe in ludicrous filth like 'protected beliefs', as though a belief, which stands or falls by its veracity and rationality, was in itself remotely significant to anyone other than its holder. The more grotesque obscene and foul the filth in the heads of filth, the more it is to be protected against any contact with reality.

It does not occur to these creatures that the rest of humanity is not theirs to command. It does not occur to the the world does not revolve around the filth in their brains.

It does not occur to them because of the rampant evil of the so-called Left which generates and advances and upholds them, which insists on the subordination of civilized life to the ravings of rabid animals, which wishes to destroy all intellect, intelligence, learning, rationality and force us all to the level of the criminal Bourgeois innit, elitist, to demand animals become human.

And so later we shall return to my plight which has been a low-grade horror show in the last month because it is evil to insist filthy animals, swaggering bestial baboon men and their slobbering exemplars of subhumanity women behave like human beings.

The lady who put this version of Ave Maria on YouTube called it the most beautiful ever.